The apple blossom is not specially abundant this year. While there is quite a fall bloom of some varieties, in other cases, and with some of the most productive kinds, it is quite light or entirely wanting. The Baldwin blossom is quite thin, and it is safe to predict at this early time that the crop of this leading variety will be light. Trees of the Rhode Island Greening show a full bloom, as do many of the early and leasungstant varieties.

General W. T. Sherman has been ill for several days at his apartments at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York city, with an attack of rheumatism. He is confined to his bed, but the physicians do not regard the attack as serious, beyond the fact that he has never before been afflicted with rheumatism in any form. The location of the disease is in the back, which makes it distressing, and requires him to retain a prostrate position all the time.

The publishing house which has been robbed by its employes for twenty years is now acknowledged to be the Rand-Avery Company, Boston. The system of theft seems to have been to abstract from the stock of the concern printed sheets, or even whole books, and to dispose of the stolen goods through middlemen. It is asserted that the financial standing of the Rand-Avery Company is not affected, those losses having been fully covered in the financial statements of the concern from year to year.

In Central Falls, R. I., William Brown-In Central Falls, R. I., William Browning, a biescher, aged thirty-three, quarried with his wife, Saturday, both having been drinking. He locked the door of the kitchen in which they were, but the woman's long continued screams induced the per ton. Editors to come to her relief. They finally forced the door, and found the woman lying insensible on the floor. The physician pronounced her dead, with the appearance of having been choked to death. Browning was arrested. A sensation was created in the Coronor's office, Philadelphis, Tuesday, Mrs. Sarah J. Whiteling voluntarily confessing that she poisoned her two children, and furnished her husband with poison with which he took his own life. Mrs. Whiteling's victims were her husband, John Whiteling, her daughter Bertha, aged nine, and son Willie, aged two years. The family lived in poverty in the rear of No. 1227 Cadwalader street. Her husband died on March 20th, the girl that he was a might be supposed and several whiteling had insured the lives of the victims for small amounts.

A disastrous thunder shower swept over Montreal, Wednesday afternoon, and played havoc with everything. Two dials with the country districts, and several manufactures were upproted by the score. Several people were injured by bricks and stones falling from buildings. In St. Jean Baptiste ward, two large houses were destroyed, and several of the lunatics narrowly escaped with their lives. As it was, a number received severe injuries. Passengers arriving by trains report terrible damage in the country districts, and several lives lost and houses blown down. A similar result attended the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor by Mrs. O. O. Pres-cott, of Charlestown, Mass., Miss Bessie H. Bedloe, of Burlington, Vt., Mrs. J. J. Burton, of Bangor, Me., and numerous others.

The loss of hair may be owing to impurity of the blood or derangement of the stomach and liver, in which case, a course of Ayer's Parsaparilla or of Ayer's Pills, in connection with the Vigor, may be necessary to give health and tone to all the functions of the body. At the same time, it cannot be too strongly urged that none of these remedies can do mich good without a persevering trial and strict attentoa to cleanly and temperate habits. Aver's Hair Vigor,

The object we are after in this work is to kill the weeds and keep the surface crust of the soil broken, that the heated air may penetrate and warm it up. Gauge the cultivator to run shallow, and then run it often. When this is properly done, there is little left for the hand hoe to do.

The offering of a prize, as referred to in an English paper, for "the horse whose feet had been least injured" by bad shoeing, is, to say the least, very suggestive. Must that useful animal, the horse, necessarily be injured in some measure by shoeing? Bad shoeing, long continued, will work permanent injury, all must concede; but is there no shoeing but is dangerous?

Every load of fine old muck within reach of the farm may be made, by proper use, as valuable a fertilizer as a load of barn manure. Through this means the supply of manure on the farm may be nearly doubled. Use it as an absorbent wherever there is liquid that otherwise would run to waste. If this matter is carefully looked after, one will be surprised at the opportantities for enlarging the manure supply. Better to save the home supply than to buy fertilizers from the market. There is nothing like barn manures for enriching the farm.

Grange news, announcements, notices of meetings and business transactions, also reports of same, and papers read, will always, as heretofore, be welcome to the columns of the Farmer, and we invite members of the order to forward all such matter for publication. Also any farm news, sale or purchase of choice stock, or other transactions of interest to our readers, will find a place. Under the head of Maine Agricultural News, on our inside pages, everything of the kind received up to the hour of going to press will find insertion. Our purpose is to make the contents of the Farmer what its readers want and need.

It takes barn manure to fill the land with a fatness that will hold on for a succession of years. Experience proves over and again, each successive year, that the commercial fertilizers now made for sale should be used for the annual cropoling, if at all end of the care o of years. Experience proves over and again, each successive year, that the commercial fertilizers now made for sale should be used for the annual cropping, if at all, and never for the purpose of "enriching the land" for successive crops. Doubtless there are commercial manures that, applied to iand, would have a lasting effect, but practice knows little about them. This, however, is no argument against the use of the fertilizers. We should not care to buy fertilizers this year for crops to be grown in after years. True, grass must be manured in advance. In such case the barn manure should be applied for this purpose, and may always be relied upon to leave its testimony. Look out for a supply of barn manure if you would have fat lands.

Fine yersus Coarse Agrostis.

The following article, descriptive of the different varieties of red-top grasses, is taken from the last report of the Connecticat Experiment Station. It was prepared by J. B. Olcott, agricultural editor of the Hartford Coarsent, who has recently been devoting much time to a study of the grasses, and is one of the best authorities en the subject of our day. It has been an unsettled question whether the varieties of dwarf red-top found growing so generally a pastures, old fields that have been long mowed, and by the roadside, were identical with the coarser red-top sown and grown with timothy for hay. Prof. Fernald, in his "Grasses of Maine," (found in Agriculture of Maine, 1884.) classes them all together under Agrostis Vulgaris, with the common names of red top, fine-top, burden's grass, bent-grass, Rhode Island bent. The fine red-top is the leading grass of most of our pastures. O'Ar cut is an excellent illustration of the coarse Agrostis, which is grown so extensively for hay, under the well known name of red-top.

"We have been told by botanists that Pine Agrostis Dwarf Red-top, Fine Bent, Furze-top, Burden-grass, and R. I. The Massachusetts senators who voted against the oleo bill and defeated it, are likely to get a cold reception from the farmers in the coming elections. Votes are a potent power if the farmers will only work to get. If a plow or other steel implement has become very rusty, make a mixture of half a pint of oil of vitriol poured slowly into a quart of water, and apply to the rusted metal. Wash off with water, and scour in the usual manner. It is better, however, not to let any implement get rusty.
